

Open data licence

Statistics Belgium

Re-use

The "Information" or "Public data" provided by the "Producer" may be re-used in accordance with the rights and conditions of this licence.

The "Producer" shall guarantee the "Re-user" the personal, non-exclusive and free right to re-use the information subject to this licence, worldwide and for an unlimited duration, in accordance with the rights and conditions listed below.

- to reproduce, copy, publish and transfer the "Information";
- to disseminate and redistribute the "Information";
- to use the "Information" to edit, update, extract and modify information, in particular to "create derivative data";
- to use the "Information" for commercial purposes, e.g. by combining it with other "data" or by using it in one's own product or application.

Under the following conditions:

- The "Re-user" shall mention the references to the "Information": the source (at least the name of the "Producer") and the date of the most recent update.
- The "Re-user" may meet these conditions by including, for instance, one or more hyperlinks (URL) that refer to the "Information" and that effectively acknowledge the authorship.
- Mentioning the references does not suggest any official status or endorsement, by the "Producer" or any other public body, of the re-use or the "Re-user".

Responsibility

The "Information" is provided in the way it was produced or received by the "Producer", without any other explicit or tacit guarantee not provided by this licence.

The "Producer":

- shall guarantee the provision of the "Information" free of charge in accordance with the rights and conditions of this licence.
- does not guarantee that the "Information" does not contain errors or irregularities.
- does not guarantee the continued supply of the information.
- cannot be held responsible for loss, injury or damage to third parties caused by the re-use.

The "Re-user" is solely responsible for the re-use of the "Information", which must have a legitimate purpose. The re-use shall not mislead third parties with regard to the content of the "Information", the source and the date of the most recent update.

Intellectual property rights

The "Producer" shall guarantee that the "Information" does not contain any intellectual property rights belonging to third parties.

Any possible "Intellectual property rights" of the "Producer" over the documents containing the "Information" shall not impede the free re-use of the "Information".

When the "Producer" holds "Intellectual property rights" over documents containing the "Information", he shall grant the non-exclusive, free and worldwide re-use of this "Information" to the "Re-user", who may fully exploit it in accordance with the rights and conditions defined in this licence.

The "Re-user" shall retain all intellectual property rights over the product he creates based on the produced information or information provided by the producer, in accordance with the rights and conditions defined in this licence.

The licence shall remain valid for an unlimited duration and shall be terminated automatically if the conditions defined in this licence are not met.

Licence compatibility

To facilitate the re-use of the "Information", this licence has been designed to be compatible with each licence that requires at least the authorship mention. For instance, it is compatible with the following licences:

- "Open Government Licence (OGL)" of the United Kingdom
- "Creative Commons Attribution 2.0" (CC-BY 2.0) of Creative Commons
- "Open Data Commons Attribution" (ODC-BY) of the Open Knowledge Foundation

Applicable law

This licence is governed by Belgian law.

An appeal can be lodged with the Commission for the access to and the re-use of government documents if one or more clauses in this licence are not met.